Ashley focuses her practice on corporate law and health care. Her experience includes drafting and reviewing contracts and corporate policies, advising on regulatory compliance matters, and assisting with corporate matters, such as entity formation and mergers and acquisitions.

Ashley received her J.D. from University of Cincinnati College of Law. During law school, in addition to working as a law clerk at Dinsmore, she was a legal intern for UC Law's Entrepreneurship & Community Development Clinic where she gained firsthand experience helping start-ups and small businesses achieve their goals. Ashley also served as a teaching assistant for a course on negotiations. Before attending law school, her professional experience included working for several large health systems, which enables her to better understand the practical issues our health care clients face.

Outside of the office, Ashley enjoys giving back to her local community. She currently serves as a board member for Northside Greenspace Inc., a local non-profit.
