With a focus on general commercial litigation and breach of contract matters, Brady represents businesses and individuals navigating complex disputes. His practice is centered on helping clients resolve conflicts efficiently and strategically—whether that means pursuing litigation or exploring alternative solutions. His clients range from national corporations and non-profits to local businesses and start-ups. No matter the size or industry, these clients rely on Brady to translate complex legal issues into clear, actionable guidance.

Brady brings a thoughtful lens to every matter and is known for his meticulous attention to detail and determined approach. He has represented clients in both state and federal courts in Michigan, giving him a strong command of courtroom strategy and procedural nuance. He understands that litigation often involves more than just legal arguments and that achieving successful outcomes requires anticipating challenges, managing risk, and staying focused on a broader, practical business context.

Open communication is an emphasis that Brady brings to each client relationship. He is committed to presenting practical options and is always willing to go the extra mile to help clients make informed, confident decisions. In turn, clients value Brady's integrity and his ability to have honest, productive conversations even when discussing difficult issues.
