Tel: (857) 305-6393

Logan focuses on resolving complex commercial disputes and defending clients in high-stakes litigation. His work spans a wide range of matters, including professional liability, products liability, premises liability, construction claims, employment-related disputes, workplace discrimination, and cases involving unfair trade practices, wrongful death, and personal injury.

He represents businesses and individuals throughout every stage of litigation, from early case assessment to trial, and is recognized for developing strategic and efficient solutions tailored to client goals. Logan has secured favorable outcomes through voluntary dismissals, summary judgment rulings, and directed verdicts, reflecting his commitment to proactive case management and strong advocacy.

In addition to his litigation practice, Logan advises on intellectual property issues, helping clients protect and enforce their rights while minimizing risk. His background includes involvement in trademark and unfair competition matters, and he brings a practical perspective to IP strategy.

Logan is dedicated to delivering clear, results-oriented counsel and strives to make the legal process as straightforward as possible for his clients.
