Cancel a Store Pickup Order

For orders marked as Ready for Pickup, you can cancel directly from your Office Depot account. If you don’t pick up the item within the allowed pickup window, Office Depot will automatically cancel the order and issue a refund.

If you already picked up the item, you cannot cancel the order. Instead, you will need to return the item.

What If the Order Has Already Shipped?

If your Office Depot order has already shipped, it cannot be canceled. In this situation, you’ll need to wait for the item to arrive and then initiate a return. Office Depot offers a standard return window, usually 15 days, though this may vary for members or certain products.

Once Office Depot receives the returned item, your refund will be processed back to the original payment method.

Refund Timeline

Refunds typically take:

- 3–5 business days for credit or debit cards
- Longer for bank transfers or third-party payment methods

Shipping fees may not be refunded unless the cancellation was due to an error by Office Depot.

Conclusion

Canceling a Office Depot order is simple if you act quickly. Check your order status, cancel online if possible, or contact customer support if needed. If the order has already shipped, returning the item is the best solution. Always keep confirmation emails and track your refund to ensure a smooth cancellation process.
